

Group Consultation for PSP's ODLC Program Participants

Overview: How might we, as organizational consultants, coaches and leaders, make best use of consultation in a group setting? In these 12 sessions, we will become a learning community whose task is to enhance our effectiveness with clients while learning to sustain ourselves in the work. Members will present case material for collaborative group discussion in a confidential, supportive environment. We will deepen appreciation for the complexity of our work through an exploration of the group's interpersonal process in the 'here-and-now'. Group members' transference and countertransference reactions will be utilized in the service of understanding how maturational interventions are crafted in real time. Diverse theoretical frameworks are welcome and we will work to integrate Modern Analytic principles and techniques. Members are encouraged to develop their own unique voice within their professional roles.

Objectives

1. Promote continual learning - about ourselves in role, ourselves more broadly, and about group supervision itself
2. Collaboratively examine client case material
3. Learn from one another's experiences
4. Integrate theory with practice
5. Glean insights from the unfolding group process

Dates & Times: Updated Fridays, 12:00-1:30 pm EST via Zoom on the following dates: February 14, February 28, March 14, March 28, April 11, April 25, May 9, May 23, June 6, June 20, July 11, July 25 (note the July dates are on the B week)

Joining Procedure: Contact David Rothauser (david.rothauser@gmail.com | 347-528-0478) to express interest and schedule a required 50 minute interview to enumerate your learning goals and prepare us for a successful learning experience.

Enrollment: Limited to 12

Student Rate: $150 for initial interview, $75 per group session

Supervisor: David Rothauser, MA, MS, LP, NCPsyA, PCC is a certified and licensed psychoanalyst, organizational consultant, executive coach, educator and supervisor. He maintains a private psychoanalytic practice, runs ongoing supervision groups for coaches and consultants, and engages senior leaders and their teams in reflective practice. David has coached and consulted in a range of industries, including entertainment, PE- and VC-backed tech startups, data analytics, the commercial space industry, cyber security, real estate, healthcare, and education. He trained in coaching supervision at Oxford Brookes University, executive coaching at Columbia University, psychodynamic group leadership at the Center for Group Studies, and psychoanalysis at the Center for Modern Psychoanalytic Studies. He is an active member of the Association for Coaching, the International Society for the Psychoanalytic Study of Organizations and the American Group Psychotherapy Association. David lives outside of Philadelphia with his wife and two children.

